
Career

Posledná aktualizácia:05.04.2023 | Počet zobrazení:null

For the applicants interested in participating in the production and dissemination of statistical information about the entire society based on a reliable and high-quality data source, we offer career opportunities at:

- obtaining and processing statistical data from various areas of life
- analysis of the development of macroeconomic, business, demographic, socio-economic and ecological indicators
- creation of key indicators of economic development such as GDP, inflation, employment, unemployment
- working with databases and using modern methods of their analysis (including Big data, machine - learning)
- monitoring and implementation of the current trends in data analysis and data science
- dissemination of statistical information, creation of modern statistical products, visualizations, graphics
- programming of websites and digital products
- working with new information and communication technologies, development of new modern information systems, cyber security, ICT operation and support.

You can find the published selection procedures on the website open.slovensko.sk.