Last year, the Slovaks traveled for recreation on average up to 4 times a year, especially for outbound trips

Last year, the Slovaks mainly traveled abroad. During the year 2023, it was more than 10 million trips. But even after four years of struggling with the effects of the pandemic, the number of holidays or long weekends did not reach the records of 2019. In the structure of travelling, mainly the domestic long trips were missing.

Last year, the Slovaks made almost 11 million personal trips with overnight stays. Year-on-year, the number of trips increased by 13%, but still did not reach the pre-Covid values. Thus, 1 million, i.e. almost 9%, of trips were missing from the values from 2019. The dynamics of travel still did not reach the pre-Covid normal, but the travel habits were almost identical in their structure – 64% of all trips were domestic and 36% were outbound. The dynamic year-on-year increase in outbound trips (both long and short) by an average of more than 30% helped to achieve this state.
